How to use the Mood Board template

Full instructions on how to use this template can be found on The Makers co blog here.

Ideally see if you can set aside a good hour or so to play around in InDesign and get the hang of things. To get the best results from your mood board, spend a little more time gathering images that really represent the feeling you are trying to encapsulate.

You can grab the InDesign .IDML file by clicking here - it should work on all versions of Adobe InDesign after CS4.

Good luck
